Instructor:
Lawrence Watters

This course examines the framework of Environmental Law. Primary concepts and themes are explored in a systematic approach where each session provides important building blocks. The topics in the first part provide the foundation with landmark cases and leading statutes. The second part contains fresh perspectives and the influence of related fields with lectures by guest Faculty. The third part explores Climate Change with an interdisciplinary, national and international perspective related to implementation of the regime.

*Environmental Studies majors participating in Departmental Honors can sign up for 4 credits. Register for class THEN contact advisor at enviradv@uw.edu. Make sure to include your student number.
