

ENVIR 460

Power, Privilege & Preservation

Summer 2022

Full Term

MW 1:10-3:20pm

5 cr
no prereqs

I&S/NW, DIV
Environmental Justice
Policy/Governance

Instructor:
Joyce LeCompte, PhD

How does power play a role in natural resource management?
Who decides what is worthy of preservation? Who participates?

In this class students will:

- Critically examine strategies of resource managers to integrate local communities and cultures in protected areas management
- Explore issues of power, privilege, and injustice and their impacts on individuals, society, and resource management decisions
- Examine the potential for more socially just and ecologically sustainable approaches to protected areas management

Environmental Studies majors can use this to fulfill the Human & Social Dimensions requirement.

Contact info: Ana Wieman, enviradv@uw.edu